Forrest,
I don't know whether you wanted me to write in here or not. But I did. As you can see. Best of luck to a real nice guy and cute too. I hope you had fun with them. You are out of school for good. If see you around for a while. It's easy on the girls you take. Lots of luck,

This has been our first year in the Tomah Senior High School building. It has been pleasant, hectic, frustrating, encouraging, discouraging, memorable, hot, cold, quiet, noisy, unfinished, finished, and certainly bright and educational. It is a period in our lives that none of us will ever forget as students, office personnel, custodians, cooks, bus drivers or faculty.

Although our campus will soon be very attractive and a credit to the beauty of our city, the real value of a school is the educational processes that take place in the building. It is now our responsibility to expand our educational offerings and benefit from the physical facilities provided by the taxpayers of the Tomah School District. I have confidence that the youth of Tomah and our faculty can accomplish the task before us.

academics

Mr. Kenneth Curran, Superintendent of Tomah's public school system, assumes the task of co-ordinating school board decisions with each school's development.

administration:
of school
activity

The School Board, consisting of members: Mr. Russel Potter, Mr. Arden Hoefs, Dr. Floyd Weatherford, Mr. Earle Fisher, Mr. Victor Brietenfield, Mr. Robert Nicol, Mr. Donald Jerdee, and Mr. Kenneth Curran meets regularly. As a body, they initiate and act on all policies pertaining to school affairs.

As Principal, Mr. William Graham's main concern is the smooth functioning of the new high school.

Student Director Miss Mary McAdams bridges the gap between students and administration. Her job concerns attendance and the preparation of transcripts for seniors post high school education.

To Mrs. Janet Sullivan falls the secretarial and clerking work of the administration.

Mrs. Gloria Schutter serves the administration with her secretarial work. She also helps the teachers with any papers they need mimeographed.

Mr. Irvin Loff handles the money problems of the school system. As bookkeeper, he accounts for all the finances from school organizations to pay checks.

Mr. Vincent Crane, Business Manager for the Tomah school system, has the responsibility of making all the purchases for the schools. He is also in charge of the buses and the hot lunch program.

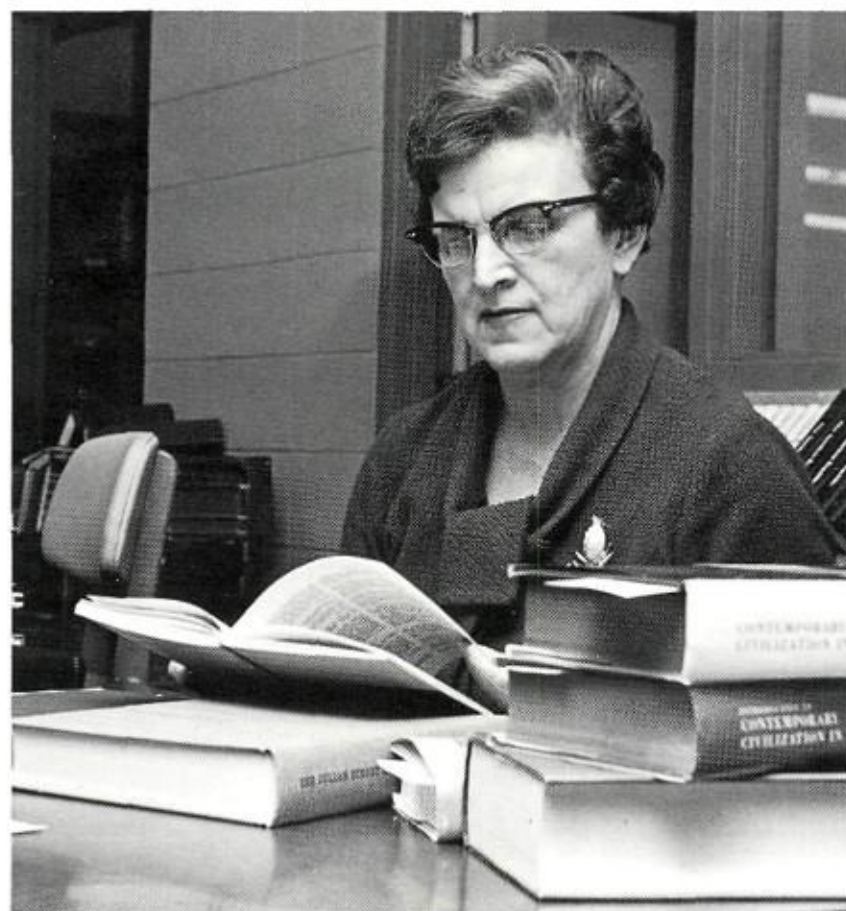

to aid students
is their goal

A new method of class rank was introduced by guidance counselor Mr. Jeff Delton. Under his method, students who work harder by taking more than the minimum number of required courses, earn a higher class ranking than those who schedule only the required courses plus the minimum number of electives.

Guidance counselor Miss Mary Eck designed the new guidance department's office; she is also head of that department. As an active member of the community, she serves on the American Field Service Committee, which is working to get an exchange student for Tomah High.

Mrs. Grace Fonstad served as head librarian for the first semester. With the help of the Library Club, she supervised and aided students as a consultant in finding books. The Library Club is made up of girls who are willing to sacrifice a study hall to work in the library. Mrs. Fonstad was their advisor.

language broadens students' lives

Mrs. Muriel McCallum taught at the junior high, in addition to her work at the senior high. She proposed a language laboratory for the new school.

Mrs. Christina Watkins teaches reading development courses. She strives to individualize instruction in the basic objectives in reading with the use of programmed materials. She holds a masters degree and is presently working on a degree beyond masters.

Mrs. Helen Waugh works with her French students as advisor to the French Club. She is a graduate of Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana, and is now working toward a degree.

english: key to communication

Mrs. Diane Graewin, sophomore English teacher, is a graduate of La Crosse State University. Her position as co-advisor of student council takes up much of her time.

Mr. Wilmer Pearson, senior English teacher, uses a pilot program with literature and develops in his students a critical approach to writing. As the only speech teacher, he is in charge of the forensics program. He is also dramatics director.

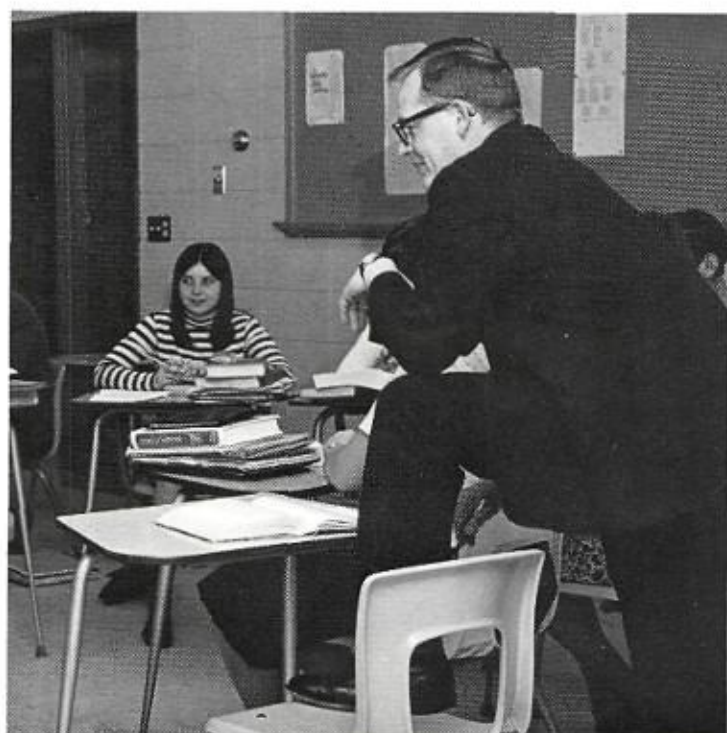

Mr. Schaetzke took over Mrs. Walker's junior English classes, and also her position as their class advisor. In teaching, he places emphasis on oral activities with the idea that a person with a well developed ability to communicate orally will be prepared for the future.

Mrs. Margaret Walker transferred from the English department to the position of head librarian. She last attended La Crosse State University and received her B.A. from Eau Claire State University.

Mrs. Darlene Wilson teaches Journalism I and II, in addition to her senior English classes. As advisor to the journalism students, she assumes many responsibilities. This includes the overseeing of all student publications and any fund-raising affairs they may plan.

Mr. John Richmond is head of the English department; as chairman, guided his committee in the planning of the English section of the new school. He holds a Master of Science, Language, and Literature, and is contemplating beginning work on a degree. Mr. Richmond instructs sophomore English.

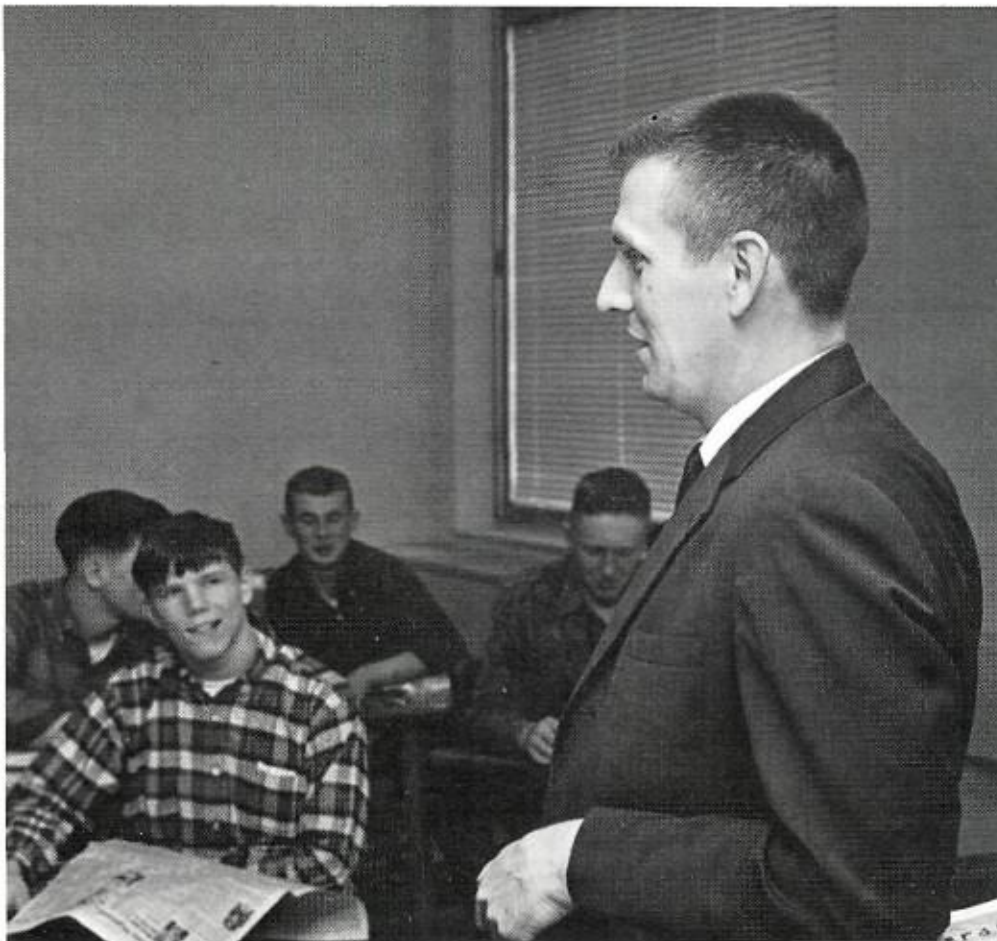

Miss Kathleen Hutchens is a recent graduate of Wisconsin State University—La Crosse. By putting more emphasis on discussion among students and their individual written expression, she encourages her junior English students to observe and analyze ideas.

Mr. Tom Gruman teaches United States History; he is head of the history department. After hours he is occupied as head coach for the wrestlers. He is active in the community as a member of the JayCees.

history, geography,
social problems:
a study
of past and present

Mr. Thomas Pedersen is a graduate of La Crosse State University, and is presently working on his master's degree. As senior social problems instructor, he developed understanding of the stock market for his students by having them invest in a mock market.

Mr. Darwin Dade strives to teach the obvious instead of just the outstanding features of the world in his geography classes. He is baseball coach for the senior high and is also recreation director for the city of Tomah.

World History instructor Mr. Paul Dedie attempts to show how past events in history influence the present times.

Mr. Gary Kunz is a junior United States History teacher and also advises that class. He holds a masters degree from La Crosse. As a member of the social studies department, helped in the planning of the history wing.

Believing world history should be more than memorization of dates and people, Mrs. Judith Andretich teaches an understanding of other people and tries to focus more attention on African, Eastern, and Southern American peoples as she feels these are areas of importance on the future.

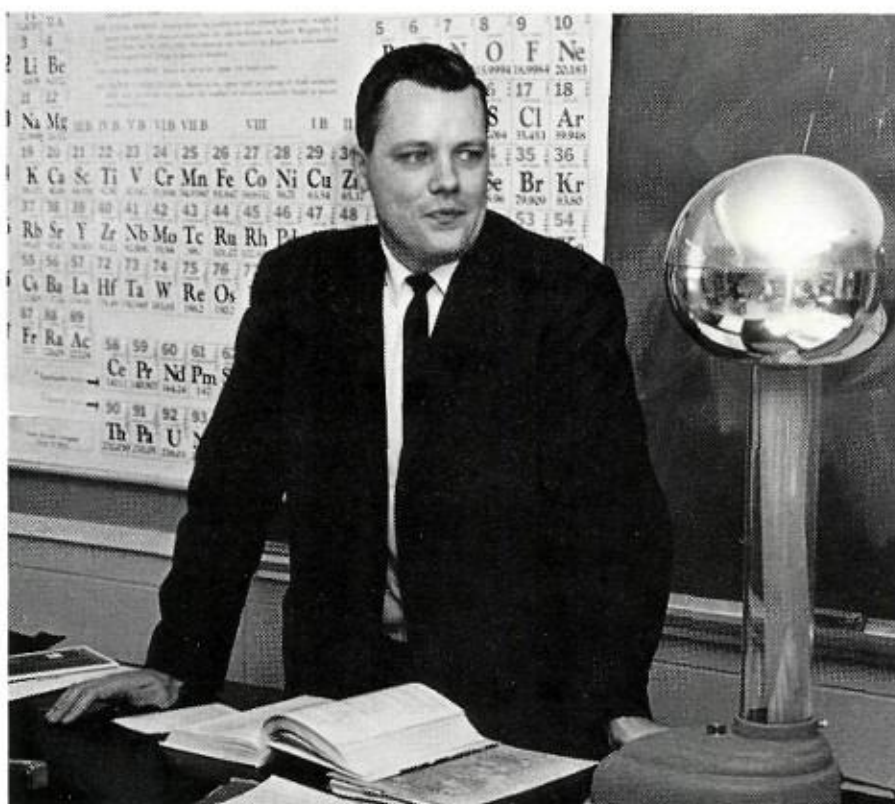

Senior social problems instructor Mr. John Crubaugh believes in allowing the student to speak out and establish his position on any topic, however controversial it may be. A great deal of his time is devoted to athletics; he serves as assistant football coach and head basketball coach.

progress
excels
through science

Mr. Gary Schultz teaches chemistry and physics and serves as the science department head. He is also co-advisor to the student council.

Emphasizing the laboratory approach to science, Mr. Harold Smith teaches biology. He designed the whole biology department for the new school.

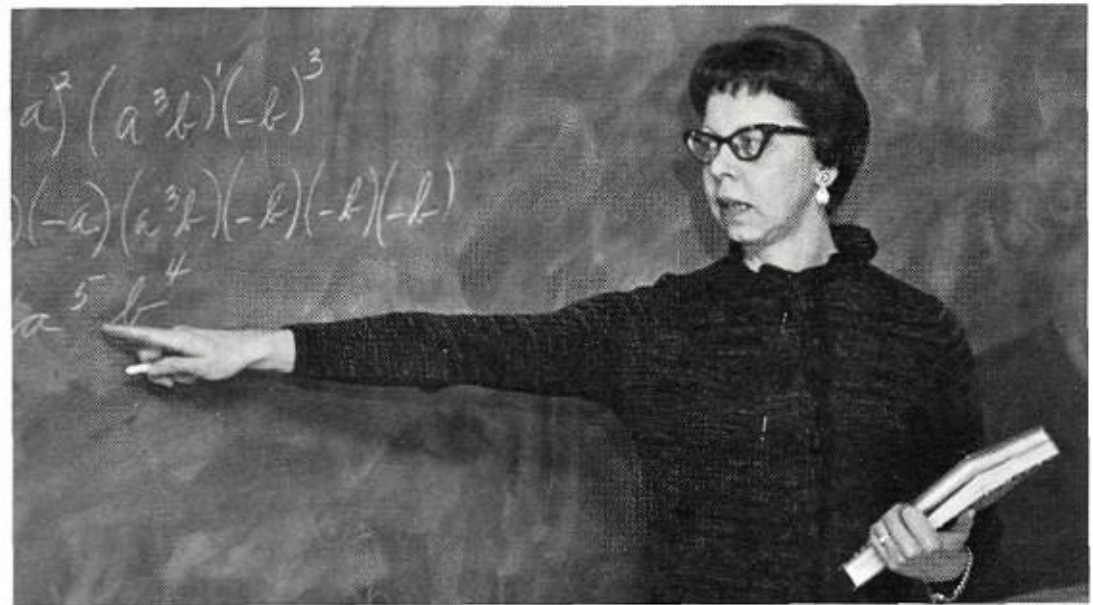

Mr. Robert Quackenbush teaches biology and chemistry. He received his B.S. from La Crosse State University.

Miss Jean Otto, mathematics instructor, strives to connect the things learned in class with practical use in everyday life.

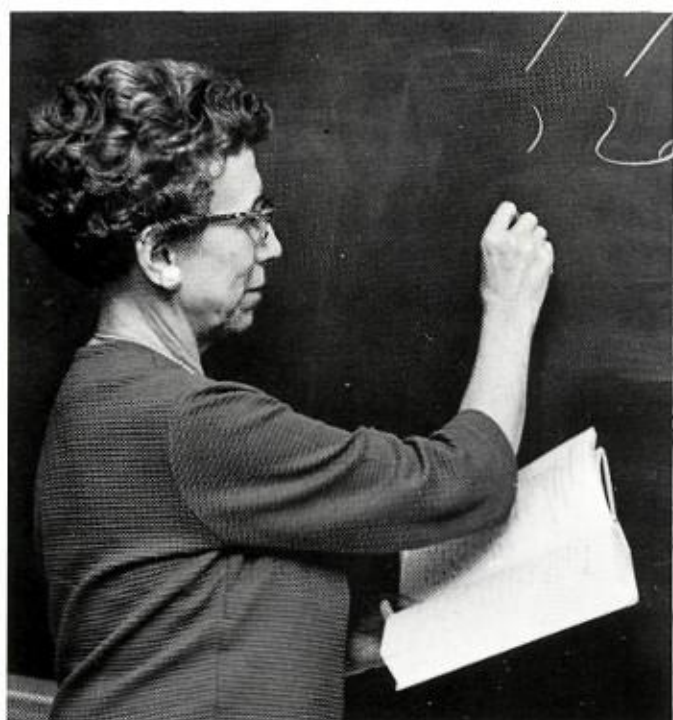

Mathematics teacher Mr. Jeffrey Wester is a graduate of Wisconsin State University—Superior.

Mrs. Vida Stoker commutes daily from the junior high to teach one class of algebra.

math expands
thought process

Mrs. Helen Carson teaches shorthand and second year typing.

secretarial arts:
prepares students
for a future vocation

First year typing and bookkeeping are taught by Mr. Harvey Nielson. As a committee member, he helped design the business department of the school.

Mrs. Leona Ambort substituted for Mrs. Carson the first semester. She holds a degree in business education.

Mrs. Evelyn Schraufnagel teaches office practice and typing, training girls as future secretaries. In addition to her school duties, she serves as secretary for her church stewardship committee.

Following current business practices aids Mrs. Irene Fenske in her teaching of bookkeeping and secretarial arts. She received her M.S. from the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Vernon Olson serves as department head for art. He last attended Winona State College and is presently working on his M.A.

instructors develop students' creative talents

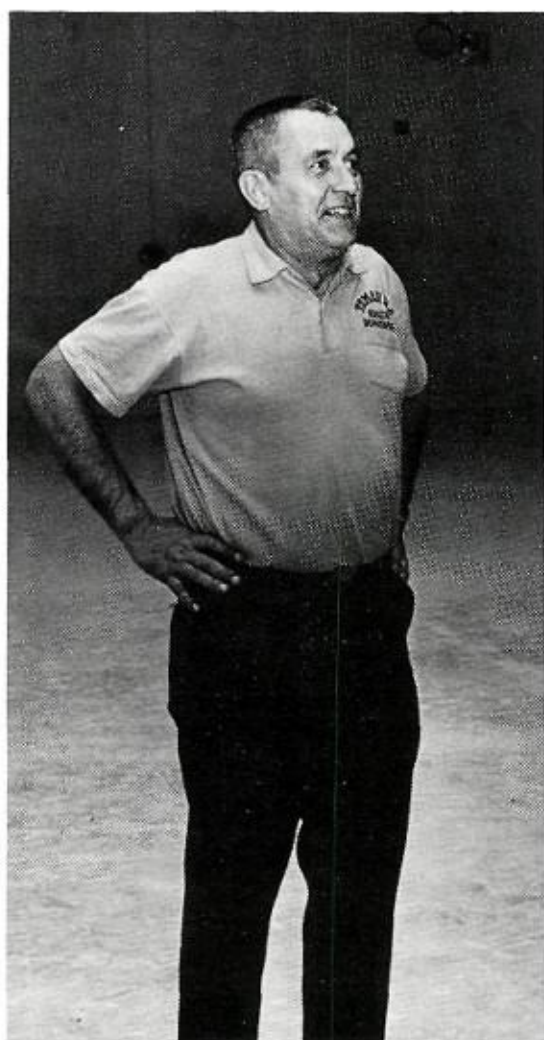

The basic design of the band room may be credited to Mr. William G. Mellin, band director. Mr. Mellin annually presents concerts for the public and trains his students in marching band techniques.

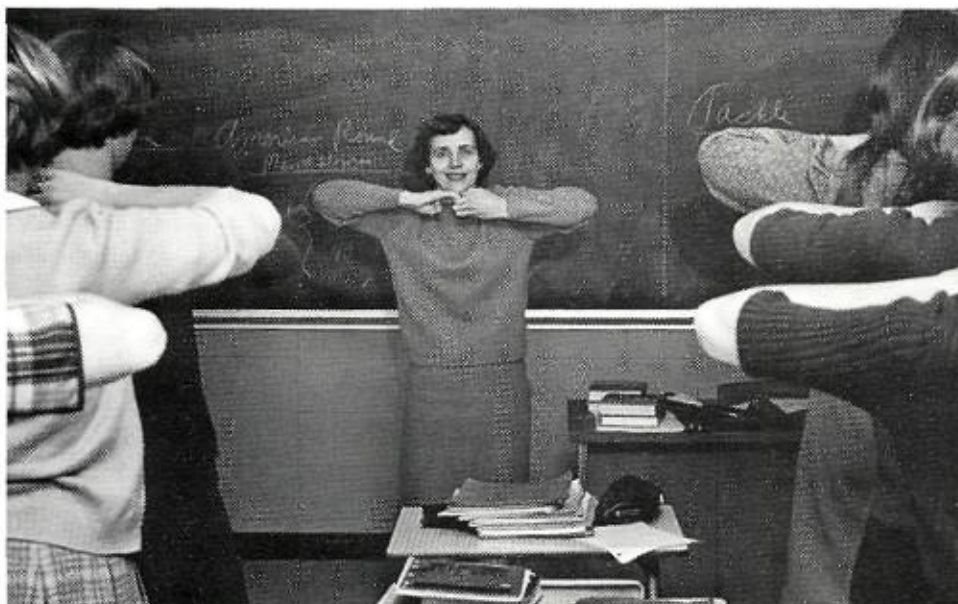

Mr. Richard Loy is credited with a Master of Music from the University of Wisconsin. He presents all new music to his choir each year and also assumes the responsibility of producing a high school musical annually.

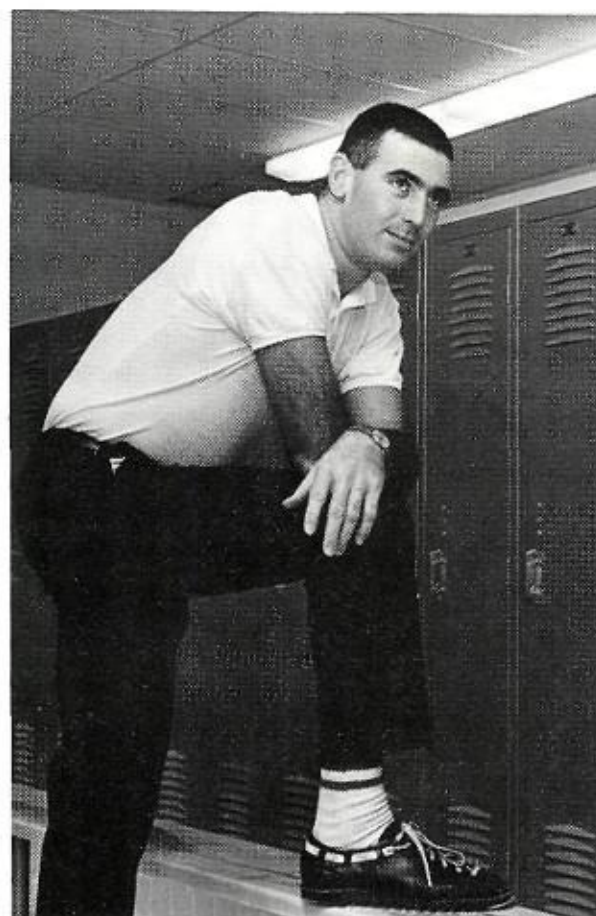

Mr. Earl Gatzke is athletic director for Tomah High. His main point of emphasis is physical fitness. An active member of the community, he is chairman of the recreation department.

Though kept out of the gymnasium because it was unfinished, Miss Marge Lund strove to make physical education interesting. She covered units in isometrics, games and sports instruction.

develops
the whole student

Mr. Dave Spies is head football coach of THS. He also teaches physical education at other schools in the system.

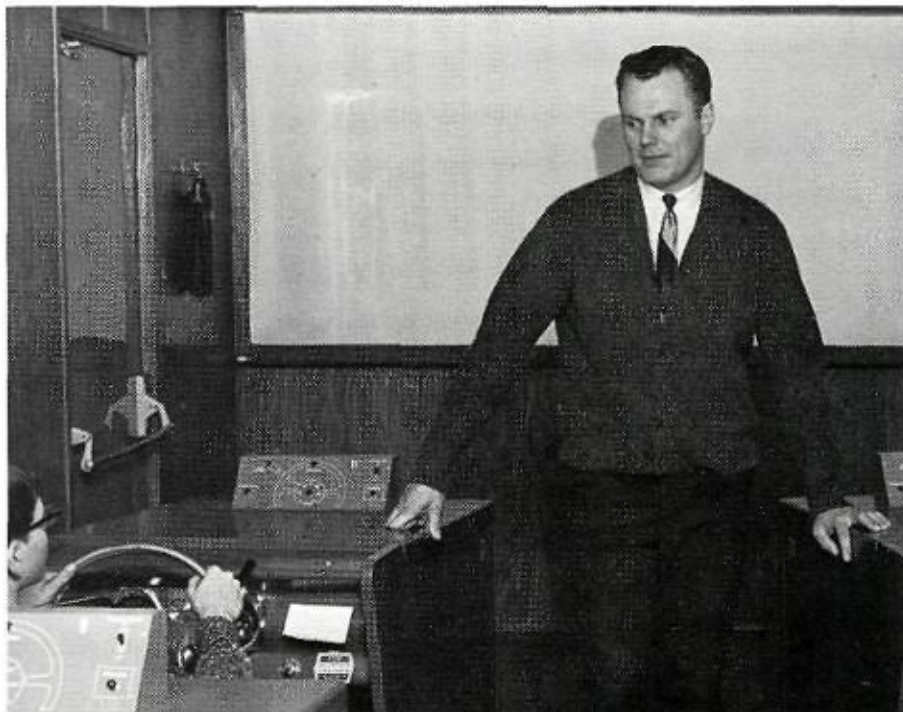

Mrs. Nora Porath drives from Black River Falls daily to teach home economics courses. She has a Master of Science in Clothing and Textiles and is presently working on an M.S. in Supervision and Education.

Mrs. Annette Owen teaches second and third year home economics. She worked with a committee to select equipment for the foods and fabric labs.

home-ec,
drivers ed.
convenience
everyday living

In order to make traffic problems more recognizable, Mr. Ronald Sanders had his students make a traffic safety study in Tomah and the outlying areas. Mr. Sanders received his Masters of Education from the University of Illinois.

vocational, agricultural courses benefit tomorrows' worker

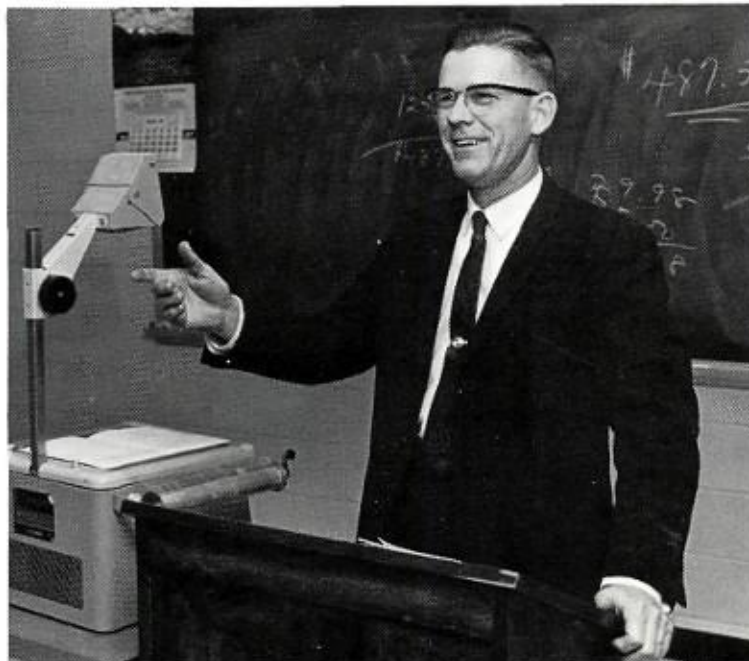

Mr. Theodore Hillert brings in an increase of visual aids and individual instruction in his agriculture classes.

Mr. Laurel Dickinson teaches industrial education. He is a graduate of Stout Institute.

Mr. Thomas Cowie feels his shop shows the students' interest, and the effort they put forth. He teaches third year industrial arts and general shop.

Vocational agriculture is more than farming is the belief of Mr. James Ness. In addition to his teaching, Mr. Ness serves on the Board of Directors of Tomah Savings and Loan Association and on the Board of Directors of the Monroe County Agriculture Society.

prom '66:
gymnasium transformed
into parisian fantasy
"la belle paris"

The formal which signals the end of another school year. . . "La Belle Paris" . . . Prom '66 . . . It started with frequent class meetings, chairmen, co-chairmen, election of the theme, committees. . . Brenda Olson headed the project. . . posters were put up all over the school proclaiming the event. . . the entire class struggled to create an atmosphere that would pay for all the hard work and responsibility. . .

Cooperation from the faculty and administration enabled students to devote extra time to the project. . . little by little the transformation of a gym into the fantasy of "La Belle Paris" took place. . . the Eiffel Tower, the Arc de Triumph, an assemblance of French cafes. . . Club 44 resembled a picturesque scene of the Le Jardin des Tuileries . . . Queen RoseAnn VonHaden and King Kevin O'Leary were crowned by last year's royalty, Roger Kruk and Nancy Blackwell. . . the sound of the Buddy Frank Orchestra from LaCrosse provided music for the evening's activities. . . "La Belle Paris" . . . Jane Wettstein was presented a charm bracelet for using her artistic talent to help create the French designs. . . bending under the ceiling of arms forming the Grand March. . . staring at the audience watching from the balcony. . . filling in the date booklets. . . individual pictures for memoirs. . . Prom '66. . . the formal which signals the end of another school year. . .

Every Junior class has group pictures taken as a memoir of having attended the highlight of the social calendar, Junior Prom. The girls assembled themselves in Club 44 for this candid.

Sowle, Toni Brdar, and Norman Wonzer. Lynn Rassmussen acted as flower girl and David Melin as ring bearer.

Bob Lamb and Jan Farnum emerge from the Grand March after travelling through the arc of arms created by couples attending "La Belle Paris."

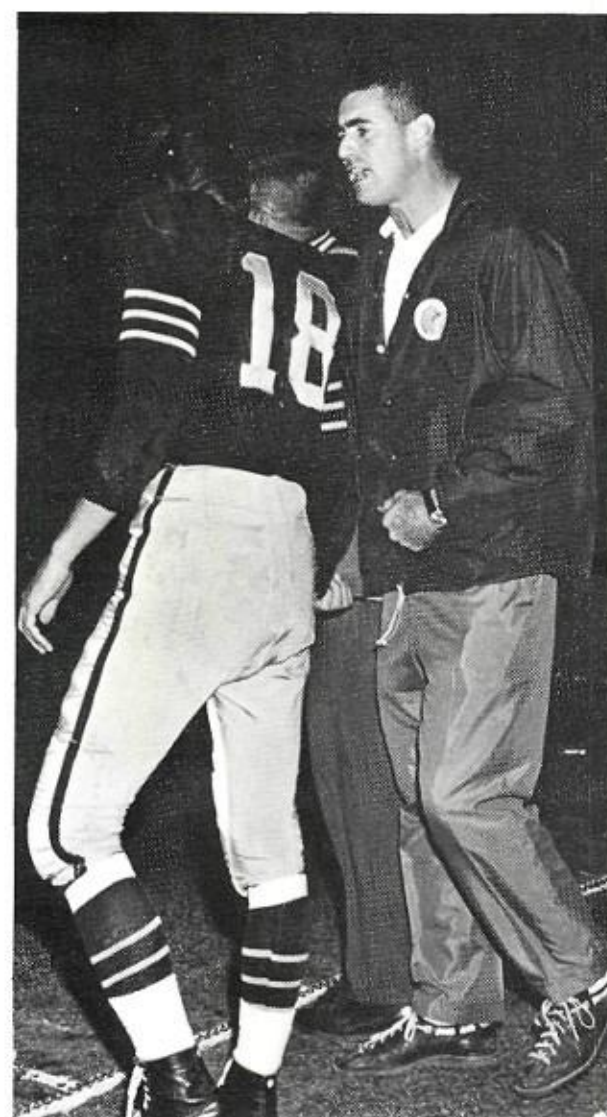

An annual event for all Tomah Homecoming parades is the red fireman trucks adding their siren tones to the celebration. Each truck is loaded with members of the 'A' and 'B' football squads, a tradition originating in the early years of THS.

homecoming:
week-end blitz
of dancing,
floats,
and football

Queen Janet and her court after coronation at the pep assembly. (l. to r.) Jan Lund, Roberta Randall, Vicki Sowle, Queen Janet Mickelson, Sharon Brdar, and Cheryl Meier. Flowergirl and ringbearer participating in the ceremony are (l. to r.) Laurie Jones and Tommy Spies. The court was again crowned during half-time of the Homecoming football activities.

The biggest weekend in fall . . . Homecoming . . . those who cheered before again added to our cheers for Tomah . . . imagination, crepe paper and chicken wire transformed our ideas into Tribal Tribute, this year's theme . . . a week of senior Pep Club members painting downtown store windows with pep slogans and 'Peanuts' characters . . . The eve before the game a pep rally was held in the Junior High Auditorium . . . people were crowds . . . spirits were high . . . cheerleaders yelled inspiration into us . . . the football team was called onto the floor for a round of applause and praise . . . the coronation of Queen Janet Nickelson by football captain Dave Mubarek . . . the snake dance winding through the town afterwards and ending in a big pep session on the front lawn of the public library . . .

The afternoon of the game school was dismissed for the parade . . . sophomores with their prize-winning float "Can't Get 'Nuff of Those Victories" . . . juniors with their creation of a football player on top of a globe . . . the seniors with their barely-completed Queen's float . . . always the firetrucks full of athletes, the cheerleaders riding atop new '66 cars . . . a new addition to the parade, the "Senior Victory Boxes" . . . Friday night brought the long trek to the fairgrounds along the winding black-topped road . . . popcorn, candy, caramel apples . . . half-time with maneuvers and music on the football field by the Senior Band . . . 24-24 . . . a tie game but, win or lose, we celebrated . . . the annual Homecoming dance . . . The New World Congregation kept the tempo of the weekend . . . graduates as well as students attended the dance . . . unity . . .

Senior girls displayed their artistic talents in the parade by transforming cardboard boxes into "Senior Victory Signs." They decorated the boxes with pep slogans, team member's names, and congratulatory wishes to Queen Janet, and climaxed their efforts by painting their creations with unusual faces. Maneuvering in groups of two, they then shuffled down the street, expressing their senior spirit.

a touch
of show business, ingenuity, and hard work

While Brian Sowle awaits the arrival of his dinner guests, Debbie Bock uses her flirtatious powers to convince him that Mariane, as played by Nancy Kruk, is a suitable wife.

Kathy Frey adjusts the newly installed lighting, which was completed the day of the production.

Second semester brought the school play... hours of work... nights staying up late without sleep... study halls replaced with memorizing lines, going over weak scenes... they practiced and sang and rehearsed... then the first taste of show business... the afternoon performance for the Junior High... this was only the beginning... preparing for the final show meant costumes, sets, perfection...

The time finally came... The Miser... March 2... complete with comic imitations, unrequited promises of love, clever lines, slapstick humor... bright costumes from the Northwestern Costume House, catchy songs set to music by Karyl Krueger... exhausted but still smiling "show people"... the audience laughed at the chase between the maid and the miser... Cleante's long black ringlets... they sympathized with Cleante as his father announced his plans to wed Mariane... the final bows... all of a sudden it was over... The Miser soon became only a happy memory...

Prompters Mary Brasic and Cheryl Welch sat patiently behind the flats ready to aid cast members of "The Miser." They read through the play six times during rehearsal and the actual play itself.

Brian Sowle contemplates where to hide his money from his children and servants. His largest task, as lead in the play, was the great amount of memorization.

Make-up worker Joyce Jacobson and costume director Sandy Rothschild apply finishing touches to LaVonne Nelson.

Shock is reflected on Colin Clark's face as Debbie Paul announces she has stolen the Miser's money box. Colin's long black ringlets gave him many an opportunity to primp during the play.

Director, Mr. Wilmer Pearson, and student director, Jackie Steele, review proper dramatic techniques with Sue Rattle and Robert Hess during dress rehearsal of Act 1. As student director, Jackie rehearsed individual scenes with the cast, ran errands, and checked last minute details.

Barb Bell, costume co-ordinator, checks last minute alterations on Ted Moskonas as he prepares to go on stage.

snoball '67: a break in tradition

A ceiling full of blue and white balloons decorated with streamers ... Snoball '67 ... January 28th ... sponsored by Student Council ... the first informal affair since its origin at THS ... girls wore after-five dresses ... boys sported dark suits ... the Crescendos beat out fast music for dancing ... highlighting the evening was the coronation of King Norman Wonzer and his date Norma Bubnich, by last year's royalty Terry Tralmer and Anna Mae Kiefer ... Sunday morning brought an early morning clean-up...

Crowning King Norm Wonzer and his Queen, Norma Bubnich, are last year's reigning royalty, Terry Tralmer and Anna Mae Kiefer.

Providing music for Snoball '66 is the Crescendos, the first "teen" band to perform for the annual affair.

Typical of the Senior-Faculty games are the jump-ball situations which occur regularly. Here Senior Jim Cram (1) and Mr. John Crubaugh match agility as referee 'Feets' Cramer hoists the ball in the air.

faculty remains supreme in annual contest

Advising the Seniors during a time-out in the game are team-elect captains, Terry Tralmer and Rich Henry (back towards camera). They worked with the boys after school and on weekends in preparation for the game.

Leading members of the Senior cheerleading squad in a festive cheer is Debbie Bock, clad in a Hell's Angel original.

A new member to the faculty, Terrence Schaezke, came as Lafayette, to save the Faculty. He was leading scorer for the team.

The annual Senior Faculty game ... male faculty vs. the senior boys ... February 14 ... senior girls were cheerleaders and dressed accordingly ... a baby complete with diaper, a Hell's Angel mama, an uninhibited beatnik ... faculty members brought laughter to the crowd with their impersonations of famous celebrities ... Magilla the Gorilla, Maynard G. Krebs ... the faculty once again demonstrated their agility with a basketball ... defeating the "Mighty Seniors" ... Senior Faculty game ... one of the traditions of sportsmanship...

... a perfect example of group effort ... Showboat ... April 7 and 8, 1967 ... the beginning ... everybody pitched in to build the sets ... strenuous practice, monotonous work ... practice ... never a complete dress rehearsal ... costume fittings ... several of them ordered from the Theater House in Kentucky ... 8 PM ... a sudden surge of panic ... 'Old Man River' ... buttoning lead Janet Mickelson's wedding dress ... depicting Negroes with make-up base ... 'Make Believe' ... Dave Thurow playing opposite the lead ... Senior Pit Band accompanied the performers ... final curtain calls signaled an end to the musical but it was worth it...

Co-chairmen Lana Brookman and Jim Bursinger . . . hard enduring work for all, right up until an hour before the guests arrived . . . the finished product . . . a masterpiece of blue and white streamers intertwined to create a ceiling of sky . . . flowers surrounding the gaily-painted wall murals of outdoor scenes . . . a water fountain in one corner . . . a section of a summer house for the Buddy Frank Orchestra constructed in another . . . the lobby . . . decorated with a vine covered trellis . . . a bridge with flowing water . . . the royal court looked over the dance from the stage . . . rose bushes accented the wrought-iron chairs . . . the Junior class selected Steven Walker and Judi Bernhardt as King and Queen . . .

Climaxing the evening was the coronation of King Steve Walker and Queen Judi Bernhardt by Kevin O'Leary and RoseAnn VonHaden, last year's royalty.

Emerging from the Grand March tunnel made by guests are King Steve and Queen Judi.

A ritual at every THS prom is the formation of an arc for all to pass under during the Grand March.

Couples dance to music provided by the Buddy Frank Orchestra.

I'm going to write here in the middle so you'll have to look for where I signed it - Well
we sure had some fun times together, didn't we?
So bad it couldn't have repeated. But I guess it was all my fault. Take it easy ~~don't~~ let anyone else treat you that way.
I'm sorry things had to happen that way. By the way I thanks for the Lovely Birthday card. Well
Best of Luck to a real

"THIS IS IT" Jim Giesen tips in rebound against Baraboo to help Indians to 73-69 victory.

A new coach, a new season, and an old gym ... suicide drills and long hours of practice went into the preparation for every Friday night ... no trophies were brought home, but the rewards were there ... "THIS IS IT" and the first basketball victory over Baraboo High School in 12 years ... a second place finish in the South Central Conference ... the sixth and seventh basketball wins in a row over arch-rival Sparta ... a 7-1 record after the first of the year ... and, above all, a team spirit that produced the effort necessary for success ...

Page editors (r. to l.) Bill Kasten, Carol Harris, Dianne Cook, and Sue Steinmetz use their journalism talents to create interesting lay-outs for the school Highlight newspaper.

Planning the next issue of the newspaper is editor, Linda Erbs, and Assistant editor, John Piotroski. Nine issues were printed this year.

As part of the journalism exchange program, (l.) Sandy Thompson corresponds with high schools all over the United States. Editorial cartoons for the Highlights are drawn by (center) Nancy Kruk. Distributing the paper during noon hours is (r.) Dennis Clay.

Co-editors ... an inexperienced staff combining their efforts ... Hamot '67 ... individual class pictures ... working with Harold Libke, the professional photographer ... planning layouts, copy, division pages ... days, hours of hard work ... last minute deadlines ... a relieved crew ...

Student Council representatives Dave Drescher, Gary Neustader, Janice Lund, and Linda Walsh.

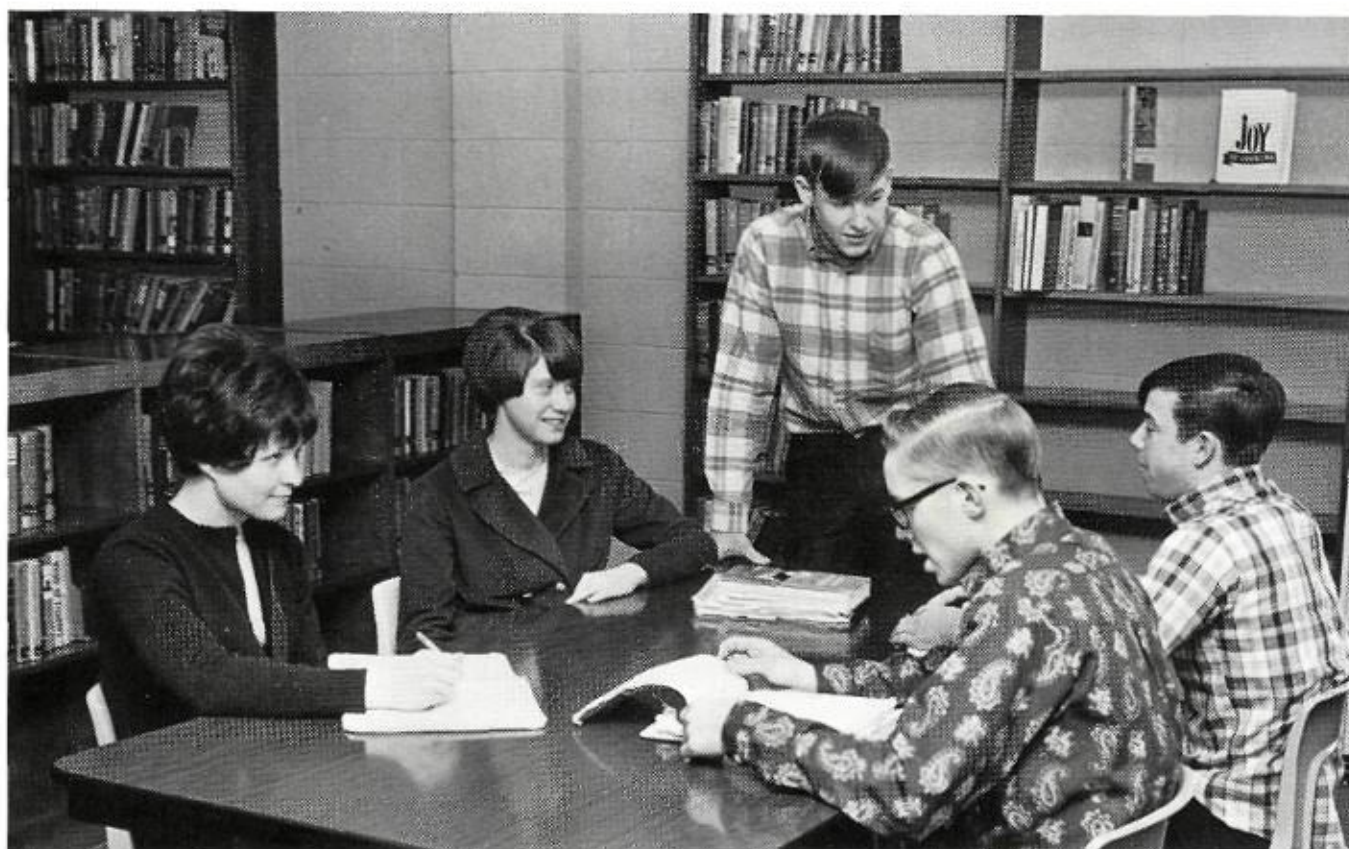

Social life played an important role . . . "Tribal Tribute" — homecoming . . . Roberta Randall and Janice Lund were attendants on court . . . winter . . . Snoball . . . representing the class of '69 were John Bordas and Chuck Larsen.

School spirit . . . the sophomores contributed their part . . . Sandy Abbs and Nani Alapai were varsity cheerleaders.

It was a long year, but in a larger sense, a short one . . . they look to the future . . . to class rings, Prom, and graduation . . . two years . . . time passes quickly . . .

Sugar Bear rides atop the sophomore class float which placed first in the homecoming parade.

juniors join ranks of upperclassmen

Junior class officers look at class rings, trying to pick out the top three. The class then voted on the choices for the one, they liked best. Sitting are Terri Seflow and Debbie Fox, while Jim Faulkner, Tunney Strozewski, and Dennis Linder look on.

The Junior year . . . a new school . . . a new future . . . but with it, many unforgettable memories of the old school on the hill . . . so much to do . . . class rings . . . prom . . . the first Junior class in the new high school . . . traditions to be set.

Leaders . . . Mr. Kunz, advisor . . . Dennis Linder, President; Jim Falkner, Vice-President; Terry Seflow, Secretary; Debbie Fox, Treasurer; and Tunney Strozewski, Sergeant-at-Arms . . .

Projects . . . all their ambition and abilities were required . . . Homecoming . . . "sitting on Top of the World," their float theme . . . "April Love," prom '67 . . . work and fun . . . effort and accomplishment . . .

Fall . . . winter . . . spring . . . soon after it had started, it had ended . . . a year to go . . . a year to remember . . .

Jim Giesen, to approval of the Juniors, "sits on top of the world." The Junior float placed second in homecoming float competition.

Tomah High School ... a new school ... a new challenge ... a place to find friends ... an education ... oneself ... a stepping stone to goals ... they developed mentally and physically ... memories were made to be remembered ...

They came as freshmen ... a feeling of strangeness, a tiny knot of fear as the familiar became the past ... but for all, an unexplainable touch of excitement, as they began the future ...

They learned from others and about others ... they began to know themselves ... required subjects, persistent teachers ... they all contributed to an education ... all left impressions ...

Football games and bus rides ... "V-I-C-T-O-R-Y, that's the Senior battle cry!" ... another prom, but to class members, the greatest prom in the history of Tomah High ... they became unified as one class ... one school ...

They left as Seniors ... prepared to face the unknown ... the future ... a big word ... alumni of Tomah High ... a place to be proud of ...

Senior Homecoming Queen Janet Mickelson and attendants ride on Senior Homecoming float. Queen Janet was elected by entire student body.

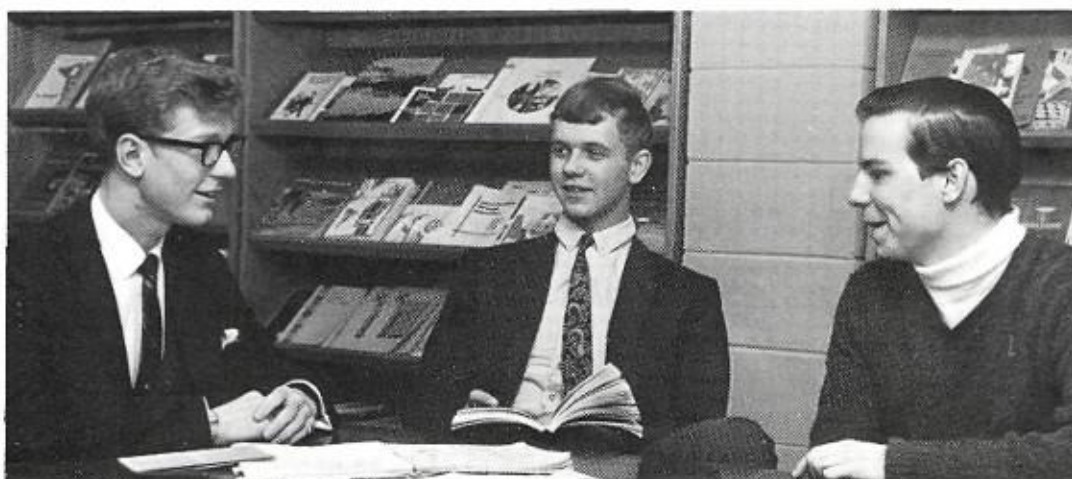

The Class of '67 voted Senior Barb Bell to represent Tomah in the Westby Ski Tournament. She competed with girls from other area schools for Queen.

Comparing notes on their week in Ripon as Badger Boys' representatives are Mike Venier, Brian Sowle, and John Piotroski.

Relating her experiences to one of the junior classes is Debbie Paul, Badger Girls' State representative at Madison.

Jean Honish was chosen as Daughters of the American Revolution winner by the faculty for her leadership, service, and patriotism to a high degree.

Mary Brasic (above) is the Valedictorian of the senior class with a 97.89 average. Salutatorian is Sue Szabo (below) with an average of 97.48.

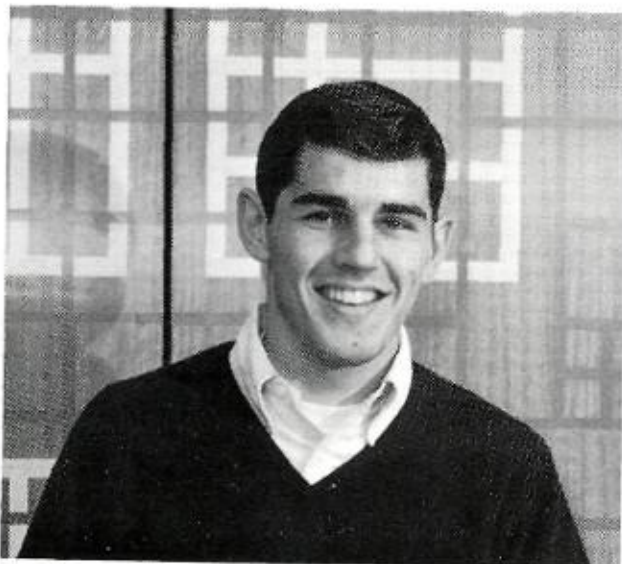

Connie Kruschke, winner of the Voice of Democracy contest, records her speech for state competition.

Linda Dahle practices her speech for the Soil and Conservation Contest. Linda placed first in local contest and second in the district competition.

Seniors Rich Henry and Robert Wells recall old memories of T.H.S. athletics. Both received All-State honors, while Henry also received All-American.

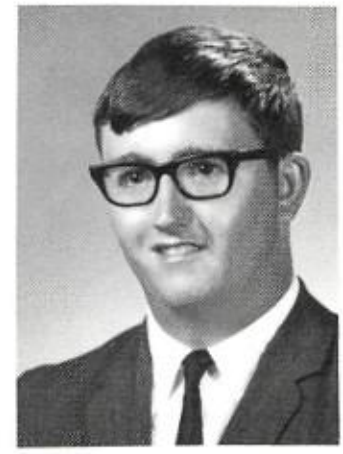

Dave Lenz, winner of the Outstanding Junior Award, received the honor on the basis of scholarship, character, and sportsmanship.

Would you believe, Betty Crocker? That's the award that Jane Wettstein received for receiving the highest grade in the annual homemaking test.

The Class of 1967 enters the gymnasium as the Senior Band plays the processional march.

graduation
new life

Class of '67 ... the first group of seniors to be graduated from Tomah Senior High School ... baccalaureate held in the new auditorium with Father Francis Mulligan of St. Mary's Church speaking to the graduates ... the finale of their high school career ... seniors march forward to receive their diplomas in the huge gym ... Supt. Curran presents scholastic honors ... Miss McAdams awards special scholarships ... "the days are past and gone" ... the curtain falls as June 1st passes into memory...

A group of senior boys jokingly reminisce and calm pre-graduation jitters.

A graduate receives her diploma from school board member Mr. Robert Nicol.

Nanci Kruk experiences mixed emotions as she listens to the Tomah high school song — the climax to the commencement program.

Members of the 1967 graduating class return their caps and gowns after the conclusion of the commencement exercises.

acknowledgments

The 1967 Hamot staff would like to thank the following for their co-operation and encouragement which they gave to the staff: Mrs. Darlene Wilson, journalism teacher and Hamot advisor; Mr. Harold Libke, Harold's Studio photographer; the American Yearbook Company; and Mr. Robert Graf, American Yearbook Company representative.

TSHS — 1967

Day's end

heralded by a setting sun—

completion of a school year heralded by summer's first beams—preceded by games — wins and losses, tears, proms, cheers . . .

and a growing . . .

in pride of school and self . . .

in understanding of others

as well as one's self . . .

in experiences which taught what books could not.

A year passed, tinged with confusion . . . and enlightenment . . .

a growing appreciation for learning—and a desire to test that knowledge . . .

a broadening of mind . . .

a defining of views . . .

development of a personal standard to satisfy each individual's belief . . .

a progression toward maturity not yet reached, but now in sight . . .

Turning, a new day is greeted—but always a smile remains for yesterday . . .

Well Forest
you heard that didn't ya boy wasn't that cute well have fun see ya around
Good luck Larry
